Rather Than Inconvenience Fier Son.

My good resolutions wavered the following day. It was Sunday and tensually warm for the time of year. It was one of those unseasonably not days that semerimes come and depty in May.

My and Mrs. Phelips had arrived on Saturday aftermoon to spend the week and.

We were stated at the breakfast table when Mrs. Hampton had the drive, but I eaw list when Mrs. Hampton had arrived on Saturday aftermoon to spend the week and was the property of the drive, but I eaw list the work making. The was making will hark me up in this, won't you desart' he appealed to me as he and this mother mounted the steps.

All of a sudden, from Uncle Wig-gily's bollow stromp bungalow came a loud noise like:
"Crack! Crack! Crackity-crack-"Oh, it's Pourth of July after all!"

Oh, it's Pourth of July after ally cried Bulls.

"And Uncle Wiggily is making a noise," added Sasmala.

Out on the porch came the bunny, in his paws he held a big dish, and the hanz-bang noise came from that. "What is it?" asked Luin Wibble-wobble, the duck.

"July crackers," answered Uncle Wiggily with a smile. "Surse Jano Fuzzy Wunzy made them. They're sweet crackers with sunar strawberry frosting on top, and when you break them in please to eat them the crackers crack like a torpedo and a small cannon. Sep."

He broke the hard-baked crackers in pieces, making lots of noise, and lossed the pieces to the animal children.

"Oh, how good they are!" sald Sam-"And they make a noise like Fourth.
